WE STAND WITH STS! End the misrepresentation of St. Theresa School in Kenilworth

In December 2016, Saint Theresa Catholic Elementary School was named by one of its school and parishioner's families in a lawsuit. What began as a family's litigation to allow their daughter to play on a boys' catholic youth organization basketball team turned into a sideshow of speculation, misreporting and spectacle. Going viral in the national news, media outlets picked up the story as told by the family and ran a one-sided exaggerated and distorted tale. Under a gag order because of the litigation the school was not afforded the ability to give any perspective in the matter and was left unable to defend itself.

This is where we come in. WE STAND WITH STS!!

We are parents, alumni, families and parishioners who know, love and appreciate St. Theresa Elementary School, the parish community and what it does for our children and our families.

We are uniting to tell the side of the story not being showcased in the media. The one of a principal and school who readily offered options and support to the family that slanders its name. STS teaches their students respect, dignity, charity and responsibility to become "good Christians and honest citizens" and held to these principals in this. They followed rules outlined by the Catholic Youth Organization and the Archdiocese of Newark. They worked with what capacity they could to provide alternatives to the student when there was no school basketball team due to lack of interest. The options were met with a lawsuit and a refusal of cooperation from the family.

Worse yet, it was met with negative comments to the media and disparaging remarks about not only the school but the students in it. STS students were collateral damage to this family's grudge against the school. They were misrepresented by the girl as jealous and intolerant. They were subject upon arriving to school with media vans and reporters. Police enforcement was dispatched to school property for the safety of the students. Their privacy and the privacy of the families attending the school were violated by the attention brought on. Attention which this family seemingly relished. A family who told reporters their interpretation of reality, that they were met with defensiveness rather than the reality that they subjected their girls to this spectacle to inspire, influence, and embolden the attention.

Attention that afforded this family and their daughters opportunities with national organizations, basketball stars and media personalities. All opportunities that were obtained by falsely claiming injustice. Our students don't deserve this. Our faculty doesn't deserve this. The good name of this educational institution doesn't deserve this. We collectively are tired of the misrepresentation.

WE STAND WITH STS in rejecting the claim that the school and the students in any way bullied, rejected or discriminated against this family.

WE STAND WITH STS in knowing that our principal and our faculty went and do go far beyond what they need to do on a daily basis to accommodate and work with our children.

WE STAND WITH STS in its achievements in inclusion, flexibility and progressive thinking.

WE STAND WITH STS in knowing that it followed rules and protocols and tried their best to make accommodations.

WE STAND WITH STS in knowing that this issue has gone far beyond a girl not being able to play basketball and has grown to a family's vindictiveness.

WE STAND WITH STS because WE ARE STS!

We are the parents who volunteer our time to assist, coach, lead and impact. We are the students who learn, grow, love and work together. We are the teachers who nurture, teach, give and inspire. We are the people who know beyond the shadow of a doubt that the negativity of ONE family will not bear witness to the resilience and confidence of all the others. WE STAND WITH STS!!

Please join me in getting the message out that STS is not what is being portrayed. We recommend that you share information here and also reach out to each of these parties (see list below.) We feel that the Archdiocese and the nation overall needs to hear from everyone as we feel they've only heard one side of the story. Please share what is in your heart and what you feel is pertinent.

Keep it Going. The Lawsuits are hopefully over but our good name is still being smeared.

I'm taking this from a comment on the NJ.com article which I think highlights many of this group's feelings. She is a 13 year old kid. All the "hoop"la will be over, media will be gone, and she still has to go to school with these kids...

Reasons for Signing

I am a graduate of St. Therasas and I know these people well. I am the kind of person who does not have problems with many people, but these parents are destroying my Salesian family. I learned a lot at St. Therasas, and I do not think I could have got a better education anywhere else. One thing I learned there is that if you don't get your way, deal with it. They were expelled - the end. They caused a lot of trouble in St. Theresas, and then they sued for multiple reasons. They then called the media and told them a dramatic story that made St. Theresas look bad. If they cared anything about St. Theresas they would have accepted the rules. I heard they sued for multiple things. I'm going to talk about 2 of them. First was a valedictorian issue. My brother won valedictorian. If they wanted to know his final grade they could of just asked my family and we would have happily showed them. No, they took it out on the school, and then they sued out of frustration. So, as you see, this is enough for them to get expelled according to the rules (you know the rules that all parents sign at the beginning of the year). But wait, that's not it. Now we have to focus on the only thing the media covered. ALL SHE EVER WANTED TO DO IS PLAY BASKETBALL. Well first, she plays on other teams - from what I know, multiple other teams. And plus, I've played in Cyo basketball for years, and I still do in an upper Cyo league. Not once have I seen a girl play on the boys team. I would be afraid to match up to a girl because I play a physical game. I'm a gentleman. The Catholic Church has to accept tradition because a lot of the Catholic faith is based off of Tradition. She could have even asked to play for other schools on the league. For example, I play for Holy Trinity right now, and I am a member of the St. Theresas parish. If she wants to go play on a guys team, she should go to a public school.

While it is my personal belief that if a sport isn't offered for girls, they should have the option to play on the boys team, I know STS only followed the rules that were set by CYO and the Archdiocese. I stand with STS because they were unnecessarily portrayed as being misogynistic in the court of public opinion. The students of STS were unfortunately dragged into this media circus. In a time when there are so few Catholic schools, the STS family needs the support of the community more than ever.

I have been a parishioner at St. Theresa's for over 30 years. It's a shame that all the good that is done by the St. Theresa's church and school is forgotten because of some very biased reporting. I send my daughter to a small catholic school, like STS, and I believe STS was mauled by the press, was wrongfully scapegoated, and now the Archdiocese, in its attempt to satisfy bad PR, cut the legs out from under STS.

The behavior of the parents in the controversy has been deplorable. Saint Theresa's offered a very reasonable accommodation to allow the child to play for another CYO team nearby. That said, this is much bigger than a child being allowed to basketball. It doesn't matter whether or not you think she should play with the boys or not.

plaintiffs have brought great dishonor on themselves and on their parish FAMILY in the court of public opinion by bringing their disappointment to court and to the media. It has also given the ever hostile press, net another opportunity to paint the Catholic Church in a negative light.

ope that the MEDIA, and Archdiocesan leaders to look into the history of the parties involved, to determine if there is a pattern of behavior used in conflict resolution.

Let us all pray that the community of St. Theresa's will stand firmly together, and not let petty and self-centered behavior tear the family of STS apart.

St. Theresa's is a wonderful and caring parish and school community. Don't ever lose sight of that.

Mary, Help of Christians, Pray for us. Amen.

So, as you see, this is enough for them to get expelled according to the rules (you know the rules that all parents sign at the beginning of the year). But wait, that's not it. Now we have to focus on the only thing the media covered. ALL SHE EVER WANTED TO DO IS PLAY BASKETBALL. Well first, she plays on other teams - from what I know, multiple other teams. And plus, I've played in Cyro basketball for years, and I still am in an upper Cyro league. Not once have I seen a girl play on the boys team. I would be afraid to match up with a girl because I play a physical game. I'm a gentleman. The Catholic Church has to accept tradition because a lot of the Catholic faith is based off of Tradition. She could have even asked to play for other schools on the league. For example, I play for Holy Trinity right now, and I am a member of the St. Theresa's Irish. If she wants to go play on a guys team, she should go to a public school.

I taught at STS and my daughter attended the school. The school has rules that must be followed : uniform, attend functions, fund raise etc. Playing sports and being in play or chorus are choices that are made. If you do not like the rules don't play. Where is school getting funds for litigation? It will get it from future students. If there isn't enough enrollment the school may close then neither boys or girls will have teams or a great academic foundation.

as raised to follow the rules whether you agreed with them or not. What is happening here is not fair to the school or the students. If you don't follow the rules you are penalized, as it should be. This entire episode just proves that if you scream and stamp your feet loud enough you will get what you want. Sad thing to teach our children. Good luck to them when they get older.

Those parents should be ashamed of themselves and putting their children thru this poor parenting!! I've been involved with youth sports for over 25 years including playing against STS with boys and girls basketball and I've seen it all however these parents took this to the extreme only hurting their children and the children of STS get a life!!!

I'm signing because our school and church families, faculty, staff and especially our basketball boys endured negative, unwarranted and fabricated publicity for the selfishness of one family. No consideration for the 200+ families that send their children to the school and follow the guidelines, respect the rules, all faculty and practice true school spirit and unity everyday!

While I am neither a parent of a St.T's student or parishioner I am extremely involved in our local community. Father Joe, the other priests, the Sisters and the teachers in that school are people I have interacted with over the years in my roles as local school board member, Girl Scout leader and community member. They have always done their best to serve the children and the community, often going above and beyond to help all.

The one-sided reporting in this incident has been disgusting but that is what most Americans have come to expect from our press these days and it is shameful. Just a little bit of actual "investigative reporting" would have put a very different light on this story. I feel for the families of the students in the school who have been subjected to the media circus caused by a family who has mistaken St.T's for Burger King and is looking to have things done "their way" as opposed to what the school could reasonably offer. I stand with St.T's.

What is stated in rules and regulations are clear and need to be followed! If you don't like those rules and regulations there is the door, leave and find another school that fits and meets your needs and requirements.

I'm signing this petition because I stand with STS. Our boys did nothing wrong. The boys I call family, we are family. Our school community is being caused harm to. We cannot sacrifice the education of the whole class because of the disruptive behavior of one family. We need to keep instilling the Catholic/Salesian spirit that this disruptive family is apparently trying to destroy.

I am a parishioner of St Theresa Church and also a very active Grandmother in school I was. very disappointed that this girl was admitted back to school knowing full well about the court order. The Church and School are very important to me and having us being dragged the level of this foolish family and hearing us spoken of in such a negative way in the media infuriates me . If this family was so angry he needs to move this children to another school they are a time bomb ticking for the next confrontation

I stand with STS. My little cousins attend STS now and other relatives are graduates of STS. I have been there for school plays and tricky trays and have felt nothing but love from all of the teachers and staff. The lying about this school and giving the wrong people the attention they are craving needs to stop. STS is absolutely wonderful.

Because the whole story was not told. And the Archbishop and the Archdiocese allow the school to be BULLIED by this family. As an alumni and a parishioner for 54 years, I am totally discussed with the way this whole thing was handle by the Archdiocese of Newark.

Our school is far from what it is being portrayed as in the media. We are a strong community, a family. Our ool is filled with love, morals and values, and we are proud to be a part of STS.
